

Performance Appraisal and Evaluation Manual

1. Purpose, Scope, and Performance Framework

The Faculty Incentive and Increment Policy is implemented through this Standard Operating Procedure to ensure transparency, fairness, and consistency in faculty performance evaluation and rewards, in alignment with NBA accreditation requirements. The SOP applies to all full-time faculty members of the institute, including Professors, Associate Professors, Assistant Professors, Teaching Assistants (where applicable), and faculty members assigned administrative responsibilities.

Faculty performance is assessed annually using a structured point-based framework covering four key dimensions: teaching contribution, research and consultancy activities, institution-building activities, and administrative responsibilities. Each activity carries predefined points approved by the institute, ensuring objectivity and uniformity in assessment. The framework supports outcome-based education, faculty development, and continuous institutional improvement as required by NBA.

2. Performance Evaluation and Incentive Mechanism

Teaching performance is evaluated based on academic workload assigned by the Executive Director at the beginning of the academic year. As per policy, faculty members must earn a minimum of 150 points and a maximum of 210 points from teaching assignments, with points awarded based on course credit structure. Supporting documents such as timetables, course allotment letters, and attendance records are used for verification.

Research performance includes publications, patents, funded research projects, consultancy work, conference presentations, professional development programs, and editorial or reviewer roles. As per policy, faculty members must earn a minimum of 250 research points to qualify for research incentives. Research outputs are considered only after verification by the Research Committee, and monetary incentives are granted only when the institute has not paid the publication fee. Participation in conferences, FDPs, and MDPs requires prior approval, and reimbursement is provided up to ₹25,000 per academic year for a maximum of two conferences.

Institution-building activities such as organizing academic sessions, coordinating institutional events, NBA-related work, outreach programs, and other developmental initiatives are recognized with points, subject to prescribed annual limits. Administrative responsibilities assigned by the Director are evaluated under defined role layers, and points are awarded once per academic year based on the level of responsibility.

As per policy, a faculty member must earn a minimum of 550 total points to be eligible for incentives and increments. Each point earned beyond 550 is eligible for a monetary incentive of ₹200 per point, subject to maximum limits specified in the policy.

3. Increment Policy, Approval, and Continuous Improvement

Annual increments are awarded based on the total points earned by a faculty member. Faculty scoring between 550 and 650 points are eligible for a 9 percent increment, those scoring between 650 and 750 points are eligible for an 11 percent increment, and those scoring above 750 points receive a 13 percent increment. In cases of extraordinary performance, the Director may recommend an increment of up to 20 percent. Faculty members who do not meet the minimum performance threshold may be considered for an increment equivalent to the inflation rate as notified by the Government of India. Faculty members who complete their PhD during their tenure at the institute are entitled to a fixed salary increment as per policy.

The incentive and increment process is reviewed by the Performance Evaluation Committee and approved by the Director. Final disbursement is carried out through the payroll system by the Human Resources department. All records related to faculty performance, incentives, and increments are maintained by HR and IQAC for transparency, audit purposes, and NBA peer review. The SOP and policy are reviewed annually to incorporate feedback and continuous improvement.
