SECTION-C

Radha hails from an-educated family. She has a postgraduate degree and well-trained in a dress-making company. She had undergone training in the US for about six months in designing cloths. Styles is a large dress-making company in Bhopal and Radha has joined this company as a chief designer. Radha has to direct the activities of 12 designers. The job of the designers requires a certain amount of training so as to develop attractive designs. The chief designer has to approve the designs of the designers. Radha's group is composed of all females ranging from 20 to 50 years of age. Most of them have high school education with a certificate in dress-designing. Radha will be replacing a long time employee Vatsala who is retiring after 28 years with styles. Radha expected no problems from her employees except possibly from Mrs. Vimala who is in her fifties and is known as the 'grand old lady'. Radha understood that without Vimala's support, her job would be difficult.

6(a) Suggest strategies for Radha to pursue.

6(b) What should Radha do if Vimala revolts along with her colleagues?
