The purpose of the National Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission (NCDRC) is to provide cost-effective, quick redressal of consumer disputes. This case study describes a case filed/disposed of relating to the protection of consumer rights.

In 2012, Jagannath Hirav and Baby Hirav booked a flat on the 60th floor of a luxury project named Lodha Dioro at New Cuffe Parade in Wadala, Mumbai. However, their Mumbai-based builder Lodha Crown Buildmart Private Limited did not deliver the flat as promised. Therefore, the couple filed a complaint against the builder under the Consumer Protection Act, 1986.

They alleged that they had booked a 3 BHK flat on the 60th floor of the proposed building for a price of INR 4,45,68,432 and paid a sum of INR 14 lakhs separately for two parking spaces.

In 2013, the Mumbai Metropolitan Region Development Authority (MMRDA) granted commencement certificate to the proposed building project for only ground- plus-53 floors and not 60 floors. According to the complaint, the builder demanded additional payment for the 60th floor despite MMRDA's non-permission to construct beyond 55 floors.

In 2015, the builder cancelled the allotted flat of the couple due to non-payment of extra charges. Consequently, the couple went to the Consumer Protection court and filed a complaint to seek refund of the deposited amount and compensation for the damages. In their complaint, they alleged that Lodha did not inform them on reduction in the number of floors and kept demanding a balance amount as per the agreement for a flat on the 60th floor. In this way, the builder misrepresented and suppressed the true and material facts in the registered agreement.

In defence, the builder alleged that the couple were traders who had booked the flat only for reselling purposes, and therefore cannot be regarded as 'consumer' as per the Consumer Protection Act, 1986. The builder also offered to refund the deposited amount or offer a new flat in the same building (on the 50th floor). However, the couple refused the offer.

Subsequently, it was revealed that the builder did not have the permission to build even beyond 45 floors due to height restriction by the Airports Authority of India (AAI).

Result: The National Commission heard the complaint and keeping all the points in mind passed an order in favour of the homebuyer couple. It directed the builder to refund INR 2.52 crore along with 9% interest per annum. It also held the directors of Lodha Crown Buildmart Private Limited, Ramandas Pandey and Pranav Goel, liable to pay the amount.

6(a) Why did the National Commission pass the order in favour of the home buyer? Explain in your own words the points in favour of the judgement.

6(b) Why did the National Commission dismiss the plea by the builder that the couple was not a 'consumer'?
