Tata Tea, part of Tata Global Beverages, is one of India's leading tea brands. The company transformed its brand identity through its "Jaago Re" campaign, which aimed to associate the brand with social responsibility and civic awareness, beyond just selling tea.

Brand Management Strategies:

1. Social Awakening: Tata Tea's "Jaago Re" (Wake Up) campaign, launched in 2008, encouraged people to participate in social causes, including voting, anti-corruption, and women's empowerment. This campaign turned Tata Tea into more than just a beverage brand; it became a catalyst for change.
2. Purpose-Driven Branding: By associating itself with civic consciousness, Tata Tea created an emotional connection with consumers. This helped in building a purpose-driven brand, where the product was seen as contributing to larger societal issues.
3. Emotional Branding: The brand's messaging connected deeply with its audience by highlighting everyday societal problems. This emotional appeal elevated its standing beyond product features, creating a loyal consumer base.
4. Digital and Media Integration: The campaign heavily leveraged digital platforms, particularly social media, to encourage engagement. Tata Tea used the power of the internet to spread its message and get consumers involved in dialogues around social issues.
5. Consistency in Messaging: Tata Tea maintained consistent messaging throughout its campaigns, reinforcing its identity as a socially conscious brand. This helped in positioning it distinctively in a highly competitive market.

However, Co. has a challenge to maintain a balance between being a product brand and a running social campaign. There was also a risk of overplaying the social cause angle, which could distract from the product.

- 4(a) How can Tata Tea balance its product promotion with social messaging in a way that does not dilute the brand?
