- (ii) Attempt questions from each section as per the directions.
- (iii) Make suitable assumptions wherever necessary.

SECTION-A

(Short Answer Type Questions, do not exceed 200 words)

Q.1. Attempt all parts of the following:

(5×4=20)

- (a) Discuss the role of organizational capability in fostering sustainable competitive advantages through SHRM.
- (b) Examine the challenges faced by HR professionals in formulating and implementing effective HR strategies in a globalized environment.
- (c) Critically assess the impact of technological advancements on the development and delivery of strategic HR practices.
- (d) Interpret the role of SHRM in managing workforce diversity and inclusion as a strategic asset.
- (e) Explore how external factors such as economic trends and legal changes affect the delivery of HR strategies.

SECTION-B

(Long Answer Type Questions)

Q.2. Attempt all questions of the following

(2X10=20)

- (a) A mid-sized IT company is experiencing high employee turnover and underperformance in key departments. The HR team has identified gaps in job roles, ineffective feedback mechanisms, and insufficient training programs as the root causes. As an HR strategist, outline a step-by-step work system redesign plan and propose a training and feedback framework that can help address these issues and improve organizational performance. Justify your decisions using HR planning principles.

OR

- (b) A retail company is planning to expand its operations across new locations. As the HR head, design a human resource plan that addresses staffing needs, ensures proper training and development, and considers potential difficulties in implementing the HR strategy. Explain how this plan aligns with the company's long-term goals and how you would overcome challenges in its execution.

- Q.3. (a) A manufacturing company is undergoing a major restructuring to enhance customer service and improve employee involvement. The CEO wants HR to play a key role in aligning the workforce with the new strategy while addressing cultural resistance and competency gaps.

As the HR manager, propose an HR strategy plan that integrates organizational learning and knowledge management to facilitate this transformation. Explain how you would handle legal, ethical, and moral considerations during the restructuring process.

OR

- (b) An organization has decided to implement an HRIS (Human Resource Information System) to improve decision-making and streamline HR operations. However, concerns have been raised about the potential misuse of employee data and discrimination in system algorithms. As an HR strategist, design an implementation framework for HRIS that addresses both strategic and ethical challenges, such as ensuring fair practices and mitigating risks related to discrimination and privacy violations. Justify how this framework supports HR's role in strategy formulation and decision-making.

SECTION-C

GlobalTech Solutions, a leading multinational technology company, recently expanded its operations into emerging markets in Southeast Asia. As part of its expansion strategy, the company aimed to integrate local talent while maintaining its global organizational culture of innovation, collaboration, and inclusivity. However, as the workforce grew, cultural differences between regional teams and headquarters began to emerge, leading to communication breakdowns and a lack of alignment with the company's core values.

To address these challenges, the HR team at GlobalTech Solutions introduced a strategic human resource management (SHRM) initiative focused on cultural integration and leadership development. This included leadership training programs, cross-cultural workshops, and a technology-driven platform for knowledge sharing and employee engagement. However, despite these efforts, resistance to change persisted, especially in regions where the company's practices were perceived as too "Westernized" and not in tune with local values.

As the company moved forward with its expansion, HR faced the challenge of shaping a cohesive organizational culture that respected local diversity while aligning employees with the company's global objectives.

Q.4. Attempt all parts of the following:

(2×10=20)

- 4(a) As the HR manager at GlobalTech Solutions, propose an HR strategy to overcome the cultural integration challenges. How would you ensure that employees in different regions feel aligned with the company's core values while maintaining respect for local cultural differences?
- 4(b) In the case of GlobalTech Solutions, how can strategic human resource management (SHRM) play a pivotal role in shaping and maintaining organizational culture during the global expansion? Discuss the potential barriers and solutions HR might face in this process.
