Ananya Sharma, Chairperson, Creedia Technologies Pvt. Ltd. organised a meeting to discuss the various discrepancies in their current HR policy. The members invited for the meeting were the Operations Head - Mr. Rohan Mehta, the Finance Manager, Ms. Priya Kapoor, Marketing Team Lead, Mr. Siddharth Verma and the H R Manager, Ms. Neha Singh. The meeting began with the opening remarks of the meeting chair citing the concerns raised regarding discrepancies in our HR policy, specifically in the areas of leave management, appraisal criteria, and remote work provisions. It was crucial to resolve these issues to maintain employee trust and operational efficiency. Certain discrepancies were highlighted by the HR Manager like inconsistency in the leave policy application. For instance, approvals for casual leaves seemed subjective depending on the department. Additionally, remote work guidelines were unclear—some teams had flexible options, while others denied without explanation.

The Team Lead, Marketing raised concerns regarding the appraisal criteria which required more transparency. Performance metrics for bonuses and promotions were often ambiguous, leading to dissatisfaction among team members. Rohan Mehta, the Operations Head analysed the issue and suspected that these discrepancies might stem from a lack of proper communication and uniform implementation across departments. Different managers interpreted policies differently, creating confusion. Priya Kapoor admitted that the budget constraints might be influencing decisions on remote work and leave approvals and a clarity was required on the alignment between policy and financial feasibility.

The members suggested certain steps like forming a cross-functional team to review and update the HR policies within a month, conducting training sessions for managers to ensure uniform interpretation and application of policies, developing clear performance metrics and share them with all employees and setting up an anonymous platform for employees to share their concerns regularly.

The action plan was agreed upon by all. The meeting chair set the deadline for implementing the plan from the next week and finalize updates by the end of the quarter.
