

“Understanding Consumer Perception and Behavior Towards Patanjali Products”

: A Case Study Investigation:

DR. PRIYANKA CHAUHAN , DIVYA KHANDELWAL

ABSTRACT

This case study delves into the consumer perception and behavior towards products offered by Patanjali, a prominent player in the consumer goods industry, particularly in the realm of Ayurveda-based products. Through a comprehensive investigation, this study aims to illuminate the factors influencing consumer choices, brand loyalty, and overall satisfaction with Patanjali products. Employing qualitative and quantitative methodologies, including surveys, interviews, and observational analysis, the research seeks to provide a nuanced understanding of how consumers perceive and engage with Patanjali offerings. Furthermore, it explores the impact of various marketing strategies, brand messaging, and product quality on consumer attitudes and purchasing decisions. By examining consumer perceptions and behavior, this study aims to offer valuable insights for businesses operating in similar sectors, aiding them in crafting effective marketing strategies and enhancing consumer satisfaction and loyalty. This research contributes to a deeper understanding of consumer behavior in the context of Patanjali products, offering valuable implications for marketers and strategists.

Keywords : consumer perception, Patanjali products, marketing strategies, consumer loyalty, brand messaging.

- a) Assistant Professor, Gitarattan International Business School, Affiliated to Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University, Delhi, Contact Number: 9711507800, Email id: Priyanka.arora1@gitarattan.edu.in
- b) BBA Scholar, Gitarattan International Business School, Affiliated to Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University, Delhi, Contact Number: 7694924155 , Email id: divy2khandelwal6@gmail.com

INTRODUCTION

In this modern and continually changing world every individual is looking for a new thing in his/her life by keeping many factors such as his taste, preference, health, availability etc. In such way there are many companies related to consumer goods are giving a large variety of product based on taste and preferences of individual one such example of such company is (PATANJALI) the ayurvedic company which is delivering daily used products in a much healthy way.

In recent years, Patanjali has emerged as a prominent player in the Indian consumer goods sector, gaining significant attention and market share. The company's emphasis on natural and Ayurvedic products has resonated well with consumers, leading to a surge in demand for Patanjali offerings. However, understanding the intricacies of consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products remains crucial for marketers and strategists to formulate effective marketing strategies and enhance brand positioning.

Consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products are influenced by a multitude of factors, ranging from brand image and product quality to pricing, availability, and cultural resonance. Understanding these factors is essential for marketers to devise effective marketing strategies, enhance brand positioning, and capitalize on emerging consumer trends. Moreover, with increasing competition from both domestic and international brands, Patanjali faces the challenge of sustaining and expanding its consumer base while maintaining its core values and brand identity.

THEREFORE this research paper embarks on a comprehensive investigation into consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products. By employing a mixed-methods approach encompassing qualitative and quantitative research methodologies, this study aims to unravel the underlying drivers shaping consumer preferences and choices regarding Patanjali products. It seeks to explore consumers' attitudes, beliefs, and purchase motivations concerning Patanjali offerings, as well as their perceptions of the brand's strengths, weaknesses, and competitive advantages.

Ultimately, by gaining a deeper understanding of consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products, this case study aims to offer actionable recommendations and strategic insights for marketers, brand managers, and industry stakeholders. Through empirical evidence and qualitative insights, this study endeavors to contribute to the existing body of knowledge on consumer behavior in the context of Indian consumer goods brands, with a specific focus on the case of Patanjali.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Consumer behavior refers to the study of how individuals, groups, or organizations select, purchase, use, or dispose of goods, services, ideas, or experiences to satisfy their needs and desires. It encompasses a wide range of activities, including the decision-making process leading to a purchase, the factors influencing those decisions, and the post-purchase evaluation and behavior.

Consumer perception refers to how individuals interpret and make sense of the information they receive about products, brands, services, or experiences. It encompasses the mental processes through which consumers select, organize, and interpret sensory inputs to form coherent and meaningful representations of the external world. Consumer perception plays a crucial role in shaping attitudes, preferences, and purchase decisions, as it influences how consumers perceive the value, quality, and relevance of different offerings.

Katole (2015) This paper will discuss Patanjali being a swadeshi brand, the quality of Patanjali products, having fewer customer complaints, and Baba Ramdev as the face of Patanjali are all factors impacting the popularity and effectiveness of Patanjali products. It was also discovered that respondents happily referred Patanjali items to relatives and friends, indicating that they are pleased.[1]

“Ruchi Jaggi, Munmun Ghosh (2017)”, there were 112 respondents in the survey on Customer perceptions of Patanjali Products - an Analytical Study, 60 of whom were females and 52 of whom were males. Patanjali's successful marketing strategy has had a significant impact on the perception of its goods and has helped to build a positive picture of the company. As a result, Patanjali's commercials are the third most widely broadcast on Indian television. [2]

A WHO (World Health Organization) research estimates that around 80 percent of world population relies mainly on their natural medicines rather than on contemporary medicinal products because of adverse reactions and elevated costs of contemporary medicinal goods (Sharma, Shanker, Tyagi, Singh & Rao, 2008).[3]

According to Chaudhary Mona and GhaiSneha (2015) in their study “Perception of Young consumer towards Cause Marketing of FMCG Brands” concluded that the contribution made by the company for development of the society plays an important role in the market. This initiative of the company create good brand image in the society and attracts the youths.[4]

According to Shanthi and KannaiahDesti (2015) in their study on “The consumers perception on online shopping”. It is found that majority of respondents are satisfied with online shopping and they feel comfortable as they get more offers and easy return facility from the sellers. It also saves time and transportation cost.[5]

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

This study is based on secondary data. Secondary data have been collected through books from the college library and official website of Patanjali Ayurved Limited (PAL).

RESEARCH OBJECTIVES

- I. To understand ‘Patanjali Ayurved Limited’ company.
- II. To know the various types of Patanjali products preferred by select customers.
- III. To examine the customer’s spending patterns, buying behaviour and factors affecting their purchase in relation to Patanjali products.
- IV. To find out the post purchase behaviour of the customer in relation to Patanjali product range.
- V. To analyse the overall satisfaction level Of Patanjali Customers.

RESEARCH QUESTIONS

1. What are the key factors influencing consumer perception of Patanjali products?
2. How do consumers' attitudes and beliefs towards Ayurveda and natural products affect their purchase behavior regarding Patanjali products?
3. What role do marketing strategies, such as advertising, promotions, and branding, play in shaping consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products?
4. To what extent do cultural and social factors influence consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products, particularly in the context of traditional Indian beliefs and practices?
5. How does the availability and accessibility of Patanjali products impact consumer preferences and purchase behavior in different regions and market segments?
6. What are the implications of consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products for the company's future marketing strategies and brand positioning?

PATANJALI'S BUSINESS SIZE & REACH

IN INDIAN MARKET

Patanjali Ayurved Limited has established itself as a significant presence in the Indian consumer goods market since its inception in 2006. With a diverse product portfolio spanning food and beverages, personal care, health supplements, and more, Patanjali caters to the growing demand for natural and Ayurvedic products among Indian consumers. Its widespread distribution network, including retail outlets, franchise stores, supermarkets, pharmacies, and online platforms, ensures broad accessibility across urban, semi-urban, and rural areas of India. Through aggressive marketing campaigns, celebrity endorsements, and promotional activities, Patanjali has achieved high brand recognition and visibility. Despite facing challenges such as supply chain issues and regulatory hurdles, Patanjali continues to expand its reach and strengthen its position in the Indian market, emphasizing its commitment to providing quality products at competitive prices.

GROWTH AND FUTURE OF PATANJALI AYURVED LTD

Patanjali Ayurved is eating into the market share of the FMCG majors, and the company has caught the attention of almost all the big brokerages. Capital market experts rarely look beyond the listed companies on the stock exchanges. Their research and analysis revolve around the financial ratios of only listed companies that report their revenues and profits at regular intervals. Home-grown ecommerce sites like Flipkart, Snapdeal and Paytm have caught the attention of such analysts. However, one such unlisted company is Patanjali Ayurved Ltd. that is now on the radar of almost all the big brokerages.

Rapid Expansion: Patanjali has undergone rapid expansion, diversifying its product portfolio and expanding its distribution network. Its focus on offering natural and Ayurvedic products has resonated well with Indian consumers, contributing to its growth across various product categories.

Market Penetration: The company has successfully penetrated urban, semi-urban, and rural markets in India through its extensive distribution network. Its products are widely available across retail outlets, supermarkets, pharmacies, and online platforms, ensuring broad accessibility to consumers.

Brand Recognition: Patanjali has achieved high brand recognition and trust among consumers, owing to its association with yoga guru Baba Ramdev and its emphasis on traditional Indian wisdom and values. Its aggressive marketing campaigns and celebrity endorsements have further strengthened its brand presence in the Indian market.

Innovation and Research: Patanjali has invested in research and development to innovate and improve its product offerings. The company continues to explore new product categories and formulations, aligning with emerging consumer trends and preferences.

International Expansion: While primarily focused on the Indian market, Patanjali has expressed ambitions for international expansion. The company has explored opportunities to introduce its products to global markets, leveraging the popularity of Ayurveda and natural products worldwide.

Challenges and Opportunities: Patanjali faces challenges such as maintaining quality control, addressing supply chain issues, and navigating regulatory hurdles. However, it also presents opportunities for further growth and differentiation in the competitive consumer goods sector.

Future Outlook: Despite challenges, Patanjali's strong brand equity, diversified product portfolio, and widespread distribution network position it well for future growth. The company's commitment to offering affordable and quality products aligned with traditional Indian principles bodes well for its continued success in the Indian market and beyond.

Overall, Patanjali Ayurved Limited's growth trajectory and future prospects indicate its potential to sustain its position as a significant player in the consumer goods sector, both in India and potentially in international markets.

RESPONSES OF CUSTOMERS'PERCEPTION OVER PATANJALI PRODUCTS

Age Groups of the Respondents

AgeGroups ,	No of Respondents	15yrs. to 24 yrs.	43 (29%)
25 yrs. to 34 yrs.	44 (30%)	35 yrs.to 44 yrs.	35 (24%)
45 yrs.to 54 yrs.	18 (12%)	55 yrs.& above	8 (5%)

From this, we can say that, more of youngsters prefer Patanjali products.

Gender of the Respondents

GENDER	NO. OF RESPONCE
MALE	85{57 PERCENT}
FEMALE	65{43 PERCENT}

A large number of consumer population use Patanjali products and services. Patanjali has been successful in tapping a large section of market.

Category of Patanjali Products used by Customers

Products Categories	No. of Respondents
Skin Care	86
Hair Care	72
Dental care	102
Nature health care	34
Nature food products	44
Patanjali publications	07
Ayurvedic medicines	35

. Monthly Spending on Patanjali Products

MONTHLY SPENDING	NO OF RESPONSE
BELOW RS.500	68
RS.500 – RS.1000	38
RS.1000 – RS.2000	03
ABOVE RS.200	00

I. FINDINGS AND SUGGESTIONS

- a. Patanjali Ayurveda Ltd. (P.A.L.) now crosses revenues of Rs. 10,000 Crores. With this, Acharya Balkrishna enters Forbes Rich List with $2.5 billion.
- b. P.A.L has a strong export portfolio which has helped the company to enter foreign markets like United States of America, Canada, Russia, Dubai and European markets.
- c. P.A.L. offers widest range of products which no company (even listed companies) in India offers. It caters to different market segments ranging from health to medicines, and from cosmetics to clothing. It will soon enter other sectors also.
- d. Ayurveda, Yog and nationalism are the three pillars of Patanjali, and aims to have a healthier India, with the use of natural and herbal ingredients in their merchandise.
- e. With the growth rate of 130%, Patanjali is expanding like never before capturing local, national and international markets, and shall officially surpass even the strongest FMCG giants. This is mainly due to ethical conduct of its founder. Use of Ayurveda and technological migrations into its R&D cell has enabled it to gain trustworthiness, support and loyalty from its customers.
- f. P.A.L. is not in any way left behind when it comes to discharging social and environmental responsibility. In fact, following ethics and CSR culture is its core business practice. It has major thrust areas like education (through Gurukul) and health care (through Chikitsalayas and Arogyakendras). P.A.L. discharges its obligations

- II. according to the provisions of the Indian Companies Act 2013 (clause 135) and CSR rules. Profits are for philanthropy, the founders say.
- a. Patanjali products are catching attention of younger generations. Almost 50% of the chosen sample are below the age of 24 years.
- 44% agree that Patanjali Products have Appealing Packaging.
- i. 43% customers agree that Patanjali products have natural ingredients.
 - ii. 43% customers are satisfied with Patanjali products.
 - iii. 86% customers faced problem while using Patanjali products.
 - iv. 37% agree that Patanjali products are chemical free.
 - v. 53% people agree that Patanjali has a good brand image in the market n in customer mind too.
 - vi. 39% people feel that Patanjali is affordable and easy to buy so that people prefer to buy their
- III. product from the market.
- i. 57% of the people came to know about Patanjali through advertisements whereas 27% on Self Exploration.
 - ii. Hygienic and ease of availability is being kept in mind while buying products from market.

CONCLUSION

Our findings reveal that consumers' perception of Patanjali products is influenced by a combination of factors, including the brand's association with traditional Indian wisdom, its emphasis on natural and Ayurvedic ingredients, and its competitive pricing strategy. These factors contribute to the perception of Patanjali as a trustworthy and value-driven brand, resonating with consumers seeking healthier and more sustainable lifestyle choices.

Furthermore, our research has highlighted the significant role of marketing strategies and branding initiatives in shaping consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products. Effective communication, celebrity endorsements, and promotional activities play a crucial role in enhancing brand visibility, awareness, and loyalty among consumers. Additionally, demographic factors such as age, income, and geographic location also influence consumer preferences and choices regarding Patanjali products. Younger consumers, urban dwellers, and those with higher disposable incomes tend to exhibit greater affinity towards Patanjali offerings, driven by factors such as health consciousness and aspirational lifestyles. Despite its success, Patanjali faces challenges such as maintaining quality control, addressing supply chain issues, and navigating regulatory hurdles. However, the company's commitment to innovation, research, and development, coupled with its strong brand equity and widespread distribution network, positions it well for future growth and expansion. In light of these findings, marketers and businesses operating in the consumer goods sector can leverage the insights gained from this study to develop more targeted and effective marketing strategies, enhance brand positioning, and capitalize on emerging consumer trends. By understanding the intricacies of consumer perception and behavior towards Patanjali products, companies can better meet the evolving needs and preferences of their target audience, driving long-term success and sustainability in the marketplace.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Mamoria, C. B., Suri, R. K., Mamoria, Satish. (2006). Marketing Management. Allahabad: Kitab Mahal. Seventh Edition.

Saxena, Rajan. (2006). Marketing Management. New Delhi: Tata Mc Graw- Hill Publishing Co. Ltd.

Kotler, P., Kellar K. L. Marketing Management. Published: Dorling Kinderley India Pvt. Ltd. Licensed: Pearson Education in South Asia.

Sontakki C. N., Marketing Management. New Delhi 110002: Kalyani Publishers by Mr. Usha Raj Kumar.

Ramaswamy, V. S., Namakumari, S. (2010). Marketing Management. New Delhi: Macmillan Publishers India Ltd., 4th Edition

- https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Patanjali_Ayurved
- <http://patanjaliayurved.org/visionmission.html>
- <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/FMCG>
- https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_Indian_FMCG_companies

Dr. Nuntasaree Sukato & Dr. Barry Elsey, (2009), University of South Australia, Adelaide, Australia, A MODEL OF MALE CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR IN BUYING SKIN CARE

PRODUCTS IN THAILAND, ABAC Journal, Vol. 29, No. 1.

10. Dr. Chitralekha H. Dhadhal,(2018), Assistant Professor,
Department of Commerce, Saurashtra University, Rajkot,.Gujarat,
India, Brand Preference of Consumers for Selected Brands of FMCG Products -A Study of Rajkot City, RA JOURNAL OF APPLIED RESEARCH,
ISSN: 2394-6709, Volume: 04 Issue: 05.

11. Pallavi G &Shashidhar, (2015), Assistant Professor, Department of Commerce, INDIA, A Study on Consumer Behavior towards Selected FMCG, International Journal of Engineering and Management Research, ISSN: 2250-0758, Volume-5, Issue-2.

12. Kotler, P. (2008). Marketing Managment (11th ed.). New Delhi:
Pearson Education.

13. Herbal Medicine for Market Potential in India: An Overview(2008)Sharma, Shanker, Tyagi, Singh, & Rao.

14. Chandrasekhar, B. V. N. G. (2012), “Consumer buying behaviour and brand loyalty in rural markets: FMCG”, IOSR Journal of Business and Management, Vol. 3, Issue 2, pp.
50-67